Story

Would you like to attract more international backers outside of your home country?

Funding period

Apr 25 2016 - May 26 2016 (30 days)

I do. As a Canadian, I always wish Kickstarter have the option to list the project in different currency, you may feel the same if you are outside of USA.

It is not convenient for backers to convert your currency to their own currencies.

Last month during my project, I found one project was very clever, they put approximate amount in other currencies directly in the rewards. I used the same technique in my project:

<https://www.kickstarter.com/projects/786298545/tapusb-one-tap-to-switch-on-off-the-power-from-a-u>

It is a good idea, but time consuming to do it for 12 rewards. Since I know programming, why not create a software to do it!

A software can generate approximate amount in other currencies for your rewards. All you need to do is copy&paste.

Backers will receive email with the link to beta version and use it right the way.

The fund will support me to add more currencies (also add real-time currencies look-up) and other features.

More fund raised will help me add more features, for example, from you IP address to refill the base country code automatically.

If there are enough backers, I could run a poll to ask for most wanted features.

Risks and challenges

This is a software project and I have code for prototype that I used myself, now only need to make it more user friendly.

There is very little risk right now.
