Story

OUR STORY

It takes a village.

These are words that have been passed down generationally to mothers and families, yet it is the single most important need in modern day parenthood.

Where is the village? There is a motherhood crisis that is prevalent in North America and many Western countries, where mothers and families are deeply unsupported and current platforms are not solving the issue.

- 80% of mothers are desperately seeking community support
- 1 in 5 mothers experience postpartum depression or anxiety
- 20% of North American households are single mothers, with no support

My name is Gianna Edwards and I am the founder of Haven App. I'm from Toronto Canada. I am a mom-preneur with two children and previously, a corporate Human Resources professional. I am a mom who has searched far and wide trying to find a modern day solution to the lack of village support for mothers and families. I have spoken to countless families struggling, in hopes of finding a solution. From friends, family and fellow community members, I have listened to many stories of grief, trauma, lack of support and ongoing struggle. I am now taking action in support of my own motherhood journey, the many mothers and families around me and ancestors before me. I am on a hunt to help solve this prevalent issue starting with my home country, Canada!

Let's bring the village back to mothers and families, so no parent ever has to feel alone.

THE PRODUCT

Haven – A Mother's Village is a community-networking App to help mitigate this problem and help build the village that is vital to mothers and families. Currently in MVP development and preparing to launch in 2026, Haven will welcome all community members to join. The goal of the platform will be focused on building small-localized diverse villages to support mothers and families and build a safe Haven. Mothers, fathers and caregivers at any stage of parenthood will be able to benefit from Haven.

A prototype of Haven was released in late 2025 to a select group of users for feedback. 94% of users use community Apps to connect with parents and families daily, but still feel unsupported. With this data and research from the prototype, Haven has generated a growing following and waitlist of potential users.

There is significant market opportunity with over 9 million mothers in Canada, and a 4.5 billion dollar parenting market. With this, we have future prospects to expand into the underserved maternal market in the United States.

Because every mom deserves her village.

Meet the heart of Haven, small, trusted circles of local community members who understand your journey.

HAVEN WELLNESS HUB - PAID SUBSCRIPTION

In my second pregnancy and postpartum, I went to every physical support specialist you can imagine to help me deal with the debilitating daily pain I was facing. I saw physical therapists, pelvic floor therapists, chiropractors, osteopaths, acupuncturists - you name it. Without my private insurance, this would have cost me thousands of dollars. I thought to myself, how can other mothers and families access these services, at a more reasonable cost?

The paid subscription section of Haven is the Wellness Hub, which is one of the final few sections of the App that still needs to be developed. It is open to all Haven community members that are mothers or would like to support mothers and families. The vision behind the Wellness Hub is to offer affordable access to resources and services, available to all types of mothers and families. The goal is to assist and help others heal, emotionally, physically and mentally. There will be 3 pillars to the Wellness Hub, which include:

- Nervous System Regulation
- Body & Physical Support
- Trauma Release

The Wellness Hub will take you through a questionnaire. It will then give you a result and an area of focus, based on these three pillars. Subscribers may need support in one or all three pillars.

To ensure Haven subscribers get the most benefits out of this section, new topics will be released each month of the year to encompass the three pillars highlighted above i.e. April = "sleep support." New videos, podcasts from professionals and exercises will be posted monthly, highlighting the experienced coaches and brand partnerships we work with and access to some of their incredibly creative resources, content and services. The videos and resources can be saved in the "Library" section of the Haven App to access at any time.

Haven will be partnering and promoting many Canadian ambassadors and small organizations to help foster maternal and familial wellness. This high engagement platform is bringing together families, local volunteers and businesses for real life support.

WHY SUPPORT HAVEN?

This project is a creative idea to support community. What better way to support community, than to reach out to all of you to help support and share our vision. It is a group effort! We can build a better world, one small act of kindness at a time.

Haven has been in development for over one (1) year and a half, since 2024. All business costs thus far have been invested by myself, as the founder. We are finally making progress in MVP development and are in a position to start raise funding from outside sources, like you!

Our Kickstarter goal is $60,000. This amount will help finish building the infrastructure of the App and support startup business costs including scaling initial growth, product development and marketing and advertising. With this Kickstarter goal, we will be able to successfully deploy and launch Haven to Canadians in 2026.

In a world where you can be anything,
be kind.

BUSINESS & PERSONAL PROJECT

Haven is not just a business idea. It is personal.

After giving birth during one of the most isolating times in COVID and being disabled in my second pregnancy, I now want to ensure mothers heal and families receive the support and guidance they deserve.

This project is my passion, my mission and my purpose in supporting the community. I am a deeply spiritual individual with a desire for helping heal the collective. Our world could use a little more kindness, harmony and healing. I promise I will not stop advocating for mothers and families, as long as I have voice and resources to do so. Funding Haven will provide my business with more resources to spread awareness and do my part in building a platform that will help make a change that is so desperately needed in our world.

Professionally, I have over a decade of corporate Human Resources experience and have worked with multitudes of people. I have worked directly with individual contributors, senior level managers, Directors and

C-Suite Executives. My Human Resources experience gave me the opportunity to develop and work with vendors to create and organize specific programs, tailored to the company and their employees' needs. For these reasons, I believe I can successfully lead this project, drawing on my well-rounded experience to better understand and serve mothers and families' needs.

I greatly appreciate your support. Let's bring the village back to mothers and families, together! We would love to hear from you. You can email us at info@havenapp.it.com. Please check out our website at <http://www.havenapp.it.com> to learn more and join the waitlist.

Risks and challenges

We have done our best to mitigate the risks and challenges for this project.

Our commitment is to ensure we have a platform that is not only functional and beneficial to the community, but safe to use. Due to the sensitive nature of maternal and family wellness, safety and liability are an important risk to highlight. We will be ensuring that we do our due diligence in liability research, safety App features and following Canadian legal protocols (PIPEDA) to ensure the safety of our community users.

Our product, brand awareness and community followers are the most important aspects of this project. Thus, we will not launch the App until we feel it is in impeccable shape to be shared. We strive to only launch a product that is in optimal shape for the general public. We look forward to feedback along the way, so we can continue updating the App, based on the needs of our community users.

Most importantly, we are committed to open communication. Our community backers will be the first to know if anything comes along that may affect the App's deployment and launch. Our team is committed to being honest and transparent should any problems or delays occur along the way. We are fully prepared to make sure this project launches in 2026, following the generous funding, supported by our community backers.

Thank you for your support!

Use of AI

My project is not raising funds for AI. However, there will be AI incorporated content in the Haven App, where users can generate AI powered guidance for general questions on parenthood. Haven has partnered with Build Me App in Toronto to assist in App development, AI assistance and IT infrastructure.
