Story

🍌 Happy Friday! Feliz Viernes! (Feh-lees Byehr-nehs)!

I, my wife and my daughter are foodies. We always have a lot of fun when we have food together, whether we're in a restaurant, or the food court at a shopping mall, just having dinner at home, or even trying to cook together! It's our time to just chill, and have fun as a family! Our happiness revolves around food. 😊

My daughter recently started learning coding and started to compare typical things you would see in the kitchen, like a blender and relate them to coding concepts, like a library! They both essentially help to solve problems, so you don't have to solve them yourself or build a solution from scratch! Just like a blender blends, so you don't have to manually blend ingredients together; a library is code already put together that you can just reuse to solve a coding problem!

We thought it was a great idea, and we slowly found a lot of similarities in the kitchen and cooking to coding concepts. We compiled a list and worked together to design a video to share some concepts, while making a simple blueberry pancake smoothie! Here's our first video - <https://www.youtube.com/watch?>

v=IgXq6NYB0ss&ab_channel=CookingPy , a simple bite-sized video to make a smoothie while learning Python coding concepts at the same time!

Our friends loved it, and we decided to keep going and make a few more. While on our third video, we thought, food just seems to be a universal language that we can use to learn a lot of things! Like a new language! So we thought, why not remake the same smoothie video, this time translating the ingredients in Spanish, so anyone who doesn't know Spanish can learn something new, while having fun making a smoothie together! 🥰 And here it is https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=AqrXRc-Qvsl&ab_channel=CookingPy 🎉

We are going to try to release a new video every Friday on our website <https://cookingpy.com> (check it out! we had a lot of fun designing this together), to share some Spanish or Python coding concepts while cooking deliciously simple recipes. We would love your support to keep us going, this just eggs Abby and us to whip more videos so we all can have some fun learning a new language or coding, while cooking!

Risks and challenges

Today, the three of us; I, my wife and my daughter, design all the videos and the website end to end. We want to make it as fun and as engaging as possible for everyone of all ages, and that's our biggest challenge to ensure we can consistently deliver a fun user experience with every new content.

We always take feedback from our friends and family, and incorporate them on a regular basis. We would love to hear from those who would love our initiative and would support our project. We want everyone to have fun learning something new, while also having fun cooking!
