Story

Three Problems: One Solution

Introducing a revolutionary product that will help the music industry as a whole one song at a time. Welcome to the world of Mi3. This nifty little app is one that will bridge the gap between customer, DJ and artist. Instead of me boring you for the next few minutes with technical mumbo jumbo. I'm going to give you three scenarios and how Mi3 bring the benefits.

First lets meet Angel, an aspiring artist. What became a hobby for her ended up becoming a passion. She began singing at age 8 and where a lot of people usually start off...by singing in the shower. Her mom heard her one day and set her up to sing at the family picnic the following month. From then, her dream became a reality. She spoke to several friends and family members and she was told the best way to get her songs out there was to get them on iTunes. Sounds like a plan right? Well it didn't go so well because she was never noticed. Not only that, she never got a hit. She was competing against big names like Rihanna and Beyonce...who would want to hear Angel from Toronto?

Next lets meet John...he is what they call a bedroom DJ. He has a constant booking every night...in his bedroom. It has always been his dream to play in a club in front of real people instead of his stuffed animals and his poster of David Guetta. His good friend advice him to create a mix tape and post it online and that will do the trick...that the bookings will come pouring in and people will fall in love with his work. So he did just that and one week later...he posted it on a mix tape website and waited for the phone to ring. Two weeks pass and nothing. He decides to go out for a drive to clear his head and ended up at a local flea market and decides to walk around. Suddenly while walking down the row, he hears something familiar...it sounds like his mix tape. He runs and follows the music and it brings him to a booth selling cds and his mix tape is playing and his artwork is displayed on the counter. There is a big crowd and they are all grooving to his work. "Wow there is hope" he thinks to himself. When the crowd clears, he approaches the vendor and asks..."wow they love my work eh?" The vendor replies "Yup I made about 200.00 today alone... great work." Now John starts to wonder...he put about two nights into that mix tape and never got anything for it. "So how much of that 200.00 is mine " he asked the vendor. "Umm none, it was free online and by the way, I'm promoting you so don't worry." John is skeptical but believes that maybe he may start to get bookings now so he thanks the vendor and leaves. A month passes and still no bookings. He returns to the flea market to the same vendor he saw prior and noticed that his CD was gone and hes playing someone else's CD and again making money off of it. "Where is my mix tape"? he asked the vendor. "Oh that's old now..don't need it...you have anything new?" John felt used and like all his hard work was for nothing. There was no booking and it seems this vendor made a lot of money off his work and when he was done with him, it was on to the next DJ. "Its not my fault boss" the vendor says..that's the way this business is and I'm not the only one...your mix tape is all over the world and everyone is doing exactly like I'm doing". This makes John feel worse...everyone is bootlegging his hard work worldwide and making money and he has nothing to show for it...not even one booking.

Lastly lets meet Terry. Terry is a big music lover. He is always at his local music store buying new CDS to play in his car. Terry has a hard job and music is like his release from all the stress in his life...it takes him to a whole other place...a nice place. He goes to his local flea market one day to get a sugar cane juice...his favorite and notice there is a new booth selling CDS. One CD catches his eye and decides he wants it. The vendor however is very convincing and says if he takes 6 CDs...he can get it for 10.00. At first he was suspicious...why 6 CDS for 10.00 when one usually sells for 20.00 each at his usual local music store. He also doesn't want to turn down a good bargain so he gets takes the deal. On his way home he decides to pay one. It doesn't work. Tries another one.... works half way and then ERROR. The third one doesn't sound good. The forth one sounds like the third one. The fifth one is the wrong CD based on the cover. And the sixth one got stuck in his deck and now he has to replace the deck. What did I just buy he asked himself. Did I get ripped off?

NOW THE RESULTS!

All three scenarios sound way too common...more common than you think. Here is where Mi3 cmes in. Mi3 is an all in one music app that is unique...unique in the way it benefits not only the consumer but also the DJ and the Artist to get his/her talent out into the world. So how does this help you may ask?

Well for Angel, the aspiring artist...it promotes her music with all its app users as well as give the user the ability to purchase her work and in turn she not only makes money but also gets the attention she deserves. Also her music can be promoted via popular social media outlets like FACEBOOK, TWITTER, ETC.

For John, our DJ, Using Mi3 not only will he be able to make money with his mixes, it will prevent bootlegging and also if is work is liked...he can be booked right on the app itself. Also with the standard CD..its 80 mins...John can go as much as 100 mins without issues.

And last but not least Terry. Lets face reality, CDS don't last forever. With Mi3, not only you can preview the music projects available but you can also download right at your finger tips and play right away. Imagine your in traffic and there is nothing on the radio...just go on the app and boom your set. And the beauty of it. When you get bored of a project...simply delete. Also each music project is previewed before hand so not just anything goes on the app...only the best!

Here is the most amazing part of Mi3...do you have a charitable side? Each music project purchased off the app...part of the sales goes to a month charity which is listed on the app at check out! So everyone wins in the end!

Mi3 is a fully patented app but I need funding to bring this dream to reality.

Risks and challenges

Getting People to Utilize the app is very simple. The way technology is going it is all going to towards mobile devices. We All live on our phones. This App will not only bring very deserved attention to the new artists and dj to the industry but also will bring convenience to all music lovers. The musical projects over 85 mins + in length so the consumer will get more than their money's worth.
