Motivation

In our fast-moving world, we all need more activity. As a result, sport is booming. Marshmallow Studios' brand-new platform – LearnActive is changing the way people learn. This platform connects individuals to instructors, making it easy for anyone to learn anything they want. The service provides a unique way for you to find the perfect sports instructor for your needs.

Research

up to 50%
the cost of the lesson goes to marketing

Independent instructors are forced to promote their services themselves or look for clients right at the lifts. Most of them are professionals in sports, not in advertising and social media marketing, so attracting customers is expensive, and working hours are not always fully loaded.

Working at the sports and fitness academies and delegating client acquisition and administrative tasks to it is an alternative. For these services, the school charges a fee. Customers are likewise difficult to come by for these academies. They are good at scheduling multi-day group training courses but loading instructors for the rest of the day becomes challenging.

Because of the strong competition for lessons at a resort, the impossibility and high expense of online promotion, and nearly no retention, it costs anywhere from 20% to 50% of the lesson's final cost to attract a client. Up to 50% of the lesson's expense is spent on marketing. Because most skiers and snowboarders prefer to travel to different destinations, customer retention (returnability) is low. As a result, no resort or institution can cut the expense of recruiting clients alone on its own.

Why and for whom is the project needed?

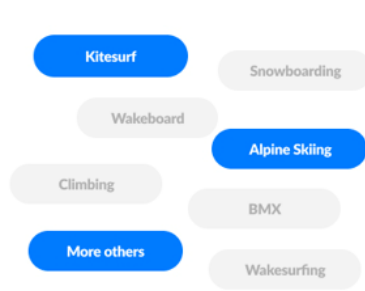

"The website and app are popular as a job search tool for instructors, but also as an active hobby community for sports enthusiasts and a source of inspiration for people's own fitness goals," said Ayo Elutilo, Founder, Marshmallow Studios. It will support a wide range of sports including climbing, surfing, skateboarding, basketball, and many more.

LearnActive is an active lifestyle enabler that delivers greater convenience and more choice for both active sports instructors and people looking to learn new activities.

When you have a passion for sports, this platform will help you find the perfect instructor. For sports instructors, LearnActive is the best way for you to find new clients for your work.

Risks and challenges

Marshmallow Studios is a startup and, as such, there are always risks and challenges associated with starting a new business. Some of the key risks and challenges include:

- Developing a platform that is easy to use and meets the needs of both instructors and users
- Building a user base for the platform
- Developing relationships with instructors and getting them on board with the platform
- Competing with other platforms that offer similar services

The challenges, however, won't affect the mission to connect individuals to instructors, all over the world, making it easy for anyone to learn any active sport they want without having to take unnecessary risks.

Our absence alone... is a risk.
